The Grant County Health District invites you to “A Conversation on Public Health”

Grant County, WA – How healthy is Grant County? What does a healthy community look like? What role do you see the Grant County Health District playing in transforming your community into a healthier place to live, learn, work, and play?

These are a few of the questions the Grant County Health District will be addressing at their upcoming community forums, “A Conversation on Public Health”. The public forums will focus on the health of our communities. During the forums there will be a brief overview of public health, a presentation of county health data and examples of how the Health District is working within our communities.

Following the presentation, there will be a group discussion to allow community members and leaders an opportunity to offer input on the strategic direction of the Grant County Health District for the next 5 years.
