

More than half of all infections that people can get are zoonotic (they can spread between animals and people).

---

